

ELF'S RECOVERY

OH, NO! I'M SICK!

I wanted to let you know that my magic has been running low, so I've traveled back to the North Pole to rest and recharge. Please don't worry—I'm safe and sound at the North Pole Elf Hospital, where elves like me go when we've been accidentally touched. Santa, Mrs. Claus, and all the North Pole helpers are taking wonderful care of me, and I'm already starting to feel better!

As soon as I've regained all my magic elf dust, I'll be back with you. I miss you so much and can't wait to return once I'm feeling my best!

With magical love,
Your Elf
